

Andrea Lecchini-Visintini (University of Leicester)

On the stability of receding horizon control for continuous-time stochastic systems

Abstract

We study the stability of receding horizon control for continuous-time non-linear stochastic differential equations. We illustrate the results with a simulation example in which we employ receding horizon control to design an investment strategy to repay a debt.